Indoor Programming Report

September 16, 2026

We are almost done with fall programming registration. We have some classes starting this week (pickleball), some starting next week (Spanish), and hopefully some starting the week following. We currently only have 4 confirmed classes - pickleball, youth art, beginner Spanish, and intermediate Spanish. Youth art is a class that we receive a grant for, the other 3 are classes that meet the minimum participants required. We have many classes that we are ~1-3 participants away from being able to run, and we have a few classes that we have received virtually none for. Overall, we are experiencing fairly low registration numbers this fall term, compared to others in the past (121 last fall, vs 87 currently this fall). I think our Fall newsletter not being printed this year has a lot to do with our low registration numbers, as there is a large number of people who are not connected with us on socials or via our mailing list (and don't want to be). We extended programming registration until the end of September (ish), so I am trying to get a one-page programming flyer distributed to all of the addresses in our community - approximately 3100. That brings me to a whole other concern, which is that out of 3100 residences in our community… We only had 120 people register for programming last fall. I don't know if this is a normal ratio, but it seems really low to me.

I would be delighted if someone would fully take over Indoor Programming, or at least some of the parts that I struggle with (receiving/dealing with last minute programming cancellations and notifying participants, collecting money from online registrations, and scheduling/rescheduling program times from cancellations).
